Our software supports you in the management and monitoring of all branches.

The challenges

Any cash-in-transit service provider with multiple sites knows the challenge of managing an extensive amount of customer and contract data. The key here is to maintain an overview of everything and, above all, to create standardized processes. To ensure a uniform structure and quality of cash logistics and cash handling processes, the procedures for the individual branches must be roughly the same.

The solution

Centurio is a central administration tool for cash-in-transit companies that can be used in conjunction with the order management system Amis and the cash center software Pecunia.

If you are working across locations for a cross-regional customer, Centurio gives you the ability to merge and manage data centrally so that all locations are working from the same database. From Centurio, you can replicate all master data to Pecunia. Location-specific changes can still be made. Centurio is also used for contract maintenance, cross-location reporting and centralized billing. Conversely, billing-relevant services are automatically transferred from Pecunia to Centurio. Here, the integrated invoicing module contributes to a considerable simplification of the central, monthly invoicing. The reporting required for data exchange can be flexibly adapted to your capacities.

The functions

- ✓ Central, multi-client maintenance of contract and master data
- ✓ Central configuration of processes
- ✓ Automated generation of invoices
- ✓ Flexible, automated data import & export
- ✓ Reporting on all provided services and bookings

The benefit

- ✓ Centurio allows you to manage data centrally and flexibly and connects your branches across locations
- ✓ The uniform configuration makes processes possible that are controlled in a targeted manner, thus reducing the susceptibility to errors.
- ✓ Automated invoicing means no more missed invoice items or customer-specific conditions.
